

UC San Diego

Division of Arts & Humanities

April 9, 2016

Triton Day

The Institute of Arts and Humanities (IAH) serves as a consolidated, yet richly diverse, resource for improving the effectiveness of humanities study as it impacts our fast-evolving, interconnected world. This is a critical objective for the Division of Arts and Humanities since UC San Diego, itself, is ranked #1 in the nation for its impact on society (Washington Monthly, 2015 College Guide).

The IAH fortifies the critical capacities required to bridge cultural gaps at individual and systemic levels. By unifying the richly diverse independent programs currently operating throughout the division, the IAH elevates the role of arts and humanities on campus through cross-divisional and cross-campus education programs, through centers dedicated to specific regional or cultural studies, and through agile lab-style research collaborations and initiatives focused on multidisciplinary themes.

iah.ucsd.edu

Institute of Arts and Humanities (IAH)

University of California San Diego

9500 Gilman Drive, MC 0113

Humanities and Social Sciences Building, 1st Floor—Tower

La Jolla, CA 92093-0113

iah.ucsd.edu

IAH Programs :

African American Studies

European Studies

Japanese Studies

Middle East Studies

REES Studies

Chinese Studies

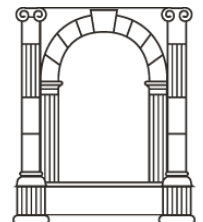

German Studies

מדעי היהדות
Jewish Studies

Classical Studies

Italian Studies

SCIENCE
STUDIES

Korean Studies

Institute of Arts and Humanities (IAH)
University of California San Diego
9500 Gilman Drive, MC 0113
Humanities and Social Sciences Building, 1st Floor—Tower
La Jolla, CA 92093-0113
iah.ucsd.edu