Ben Cowan received his B.A. from Harvard University and his M.A. and Ph.D. from UCLA. His interest in right-wing radicalism, morality, sexuality, and 20th-century imperialism has led him to research focused on Cold War Brazil, with a specialization in the cultural and gender history of the post-1964 era. Dr. Cowan’s book Securing Sex: Morality and Repression in the Making of Cold War Brazil was published by the University of North Carolina Press in 2016. Before coming to UCSD, Dr. Cowan taught at Occidental College, Dalhousie University and George Mason University.

He is currently writing a second monograph illuminating the rise of the contemporary Right as a Brazilian and transnational process.
