THE INJUSTICE NEVER LEAVES YOU: ANTI-MEXICAN VIOLENCE IN TEXAS

As a historian of state-sanctioned racial terror in the US-Mexico border region, Martinez has worked to reckon with the long legacies of the past in the midst of an ongoing humanitarian crisis for immigrants and refugees. The technologies are new, but the rhetoric, the methods, and the patterns are hauntingly familiar. The need to inform public understandings of the past and its relation to our present is urgent. Martinez will discuss her new award-winning book and strategies for bringing these histories to the public.
